The Domain Name System in the Time of COVID-19: A Technical Perspective

Experts from ICANN's Office of the CTO (OCTO) will be discussing how the Internet, and the Domain Name System (DNS) in particular, are performing during the COVID-19 crisis.

The program will feature observations of DNS resiliency and other COVID-19 related issues from an ICANN perspective. Highlights from observations of DNS queries, along with news on community-based efforts to address DNS abuse will be featured topics. An invitation to partner with ICANN OCTO in ongoing research efforts, will also be shared.

Attendees are invited to contribute to the conversation with questions or comments.
